George Bernard Shaw Sees No European War

AYOT ST. LAWRENCE, Hertfordshire, Eng., July 26.—"Reasonably well," he said, "but all through this year of European crisis I have never had the slightest anxiety about war."

"And I don't feel any at present. My belief is that there will be no war."

"But if I should be proved wrong, and if there is a war, neither Hitler nor the democracies will come out on top. They will both come out very much at the bottom of any trouble they start."

Returns From Europe Appreciating Newspapers In U. S. More Than Ever

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, July 26.—Important people in Europe today are in great disagreement over the possibility or imminence of war, it was reported by Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the board of the Chase National Bank, upon return from an extensive journey abroad.

Some say that war will come in August and others say that it will never come at all, Aldrich reported, at the same time lauding the American press for its extensive news coverage of critical events.

"I want to say one thing," the banker declared, "and that is that we can be thankful that we have better news coverage than that of any other foreign country. At least print the news here. American papers, I now realize, do print the important news of the world."

Aldrich received assurances of many famous European statesmen that they will attend the congress on education for democracy soon to be held at Columbia University.

Opposition Is Severe—Dem-

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Tired Democratic leaders doggedly thrust President Roosevelt's lending program forward in the senate today through a long bi-partisan gauntlet of opposition.

Majority Leader Barkley called the members into session at 11 a. m., an hour earlier than customary, and announced he would hold them for a night meeting in the administration's drive to force the $2,400,000,000 lending legislation toward passage.

Barkley aimed for a senate vote on the bill late Thursday night, but powerful forces resisting the measure, scoffed at this objective as futile. They predicted that there would be no vote on the bill until Friday or Saturday at the earliest.

Many Amendments Faced

More than a score of amendments lined the path of the legislation and at the end there lay in wait for it a motion by its foes to recommit the entire bill to committee and pigeonhole it for this session of congress. Senator Townsend (R) of Delaware or Senator Byrd (D) of Virginia was expected to offer this motion. New Deal leaders asserted they had ample force to defeat it.

In the house the lending plan remained cooped up in the banking bill.

Adventure Of Fugitive Ham-

End In Far South

ONE OF COMPANIONS IS FOUND WITH HER

Escape Made From Marysville, O., Reformatory On Night Of June 19

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

DALLAS, Tex., July 26.—"One little adventure in this dull life of mine" was at an end today for Velma West, 32-year-old hammer murderess who escaped June 19 from the Marysville, O., women's reformatory.

A police hunt that had stretched into every corner of the nation came to an end when three Dallas detectives walked up to the woman and one of her fugitive companions, Mary Ellen Richards, 24, of Cincinnati, in the Dallas market district last night.

Two other women who joined Mrs. West and Miss Richards in the jail break have not been found. Mrs. West, who readily admitted her identity, said the group had split up after the break. Florence Shelton, 23, of Gallipolis, left them while they were hitch-hiking to Dallas and Virginia Brawdy, 19, of Akron, left them after arrival in the Texas city, she said.

"One Little Adventure"

When she escaped, Mrs. West left behind a note saying: "I must have one little adventure in this dull life of mine. If this should in any way cause you trouble, I shall come back immediately."

But it was only because of a routine "tip" that the Dallas authorities were able to recapture her. The homicide squad was checking the possibility today that Miss Brawdy might still be in the city's underworld.

Eleven years of a life sentence—more than a year of it in solitary confinement, she told officers—had worn the nerves of the woman who was found guilty of beating her husband, Thomas Edward West, 26, to death with a claw hammer.

Pale And Emaciated

Pale and emaciated, Mrs. West clearly showed the results of a long confinement and told of her despair of every obtaining any legal means of release.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The federal government's unprecedented anti-trust indictment of the American Medical Association, affiliated societies and a group of nationally known physicians, was thrown out of U. S. court in Washington today, but the department of justice indicated an immediate appeal.

The indictment, based on the government's premise of restraint of trade in the medical profession, brought this adverse opinion from Justice James M. Proctor.

The creeks are down to an all-year low and the wells give out just a trickle and the grass is brown and even the weeds don't need the touch of the sickle. It's mighty dry for the corn and oats, and it's dry for the berries too, and we need some rain, say a day or so, and the weather is ninety-two. And early this morning a few small drops gave hint of a pour to come, and then they stopped with suddenness, and the rain hint tip was a bum. We need some rain and we need it bad, and the lawns are turning to brown, but I've a hunch that the rain making king will soon be going to town.

LONDON, July 26.—Latest details of negotiations with Russia for a tri-partite military alliance to bolster Anglo-French policy in Europe and the Far East, were reviewed today by the British cabinet with authoritative indications signature of the long-awaited pact was near.

Believe Pact Near

Disclosure in Whitehall that Britain and France forwarded to Moscow the text of a suggested joint Anglo-French-Russian communiqué, announcing the initiation of three-power general staff conversations as a prelude to an accord, supported belief that ultimate conclusion of the fact is only a matter of days.

The British foreign office awaited the Soviet government's views on the wording of the suggested announcement. The nature of the Russian reply will determine whether prime minister Neville Chamberlain will make an announcement (Continued On Page Two)

MR. AND MRS. BISHOP SILVER ANNIVERSARY

Relatives gathered Tuesday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bishop on Maryland avenue for the purpose of helping to celebrate their silver wedding anniversary, the occasion having been planned in the form of a surprise.

On July 25, 1914, Miss Rae Durant and Earl Bishop journeyed to the home of his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Englemyer at Conway, Pa., and were married in their home by the United Presbyterian minister, the Rev. D. A. W. Johnston. Mrs. Bishop is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Durant and was born and raised in New Castle. Mr. Bishop was also raised in New Castle, and they have spent their entire lives in this city. They are the parents of one son, James, at home.

The hours were spent with sacred music with Mrs. Grace Woodard at the piano and James Bishop accompanying on the violin.

Lunch was a later pleasure, served buffet style to 34 and the table appointments were in keeping with the wedding theme. Aides include Mrs. C. E. Gwin, Miss Bessie Durant, Mrs. W. J. Durant and James Bishop.

Climaxing festivities, the assemblage presented the honored couple with a chest of silver, and their son, James Bishop, at this time, gave his father and mother a handsome silver coffee service.

Out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Durant of Pittsburgh, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Patterson of Youngstown, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Burns and son Russell and daughter Marjorie and Russell Patterson of Niles.

ROBINSON-CORNMAN WEDDING IN GARDEN

The "Gateway To Happiness" an improvised altar formed with an abundance of garden flowers, contributed by the East Brook Garden Club, was embarked about the little white gate at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Robinson of East Brook, and made an impressive setting for the lovely garden wedding of their daughter, Miss Nancy Irene Robinson, when she became the bride of Charles Edward Cornman, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Cornman, Sr., of Volant, on Tuesday morning.

Dr. C. B. Winger, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church, officiated with the single ring service, in the presence of an assemblage of relatives and close friends of the young couple at 11 o'clock.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her white short puffed gown, with tulle veil, worn en train, fell from a cluster of white roses and blue cornflowers in her hair. White roses and white mentha showered with white achilles, formed her quaint arm bouquet. Completing her wedding ensemble, she held a white rose point handkerchief, which was carried by her mother on her wedding day.

Miss Violet Robinson, as her sister's maid of honor, was gowned in blue embroidered marquisette. She carried pink carnations and blue delphiniums, and her hair was adorned with a cluster of real flowers.

James Albert Robinson, brother of the bride, served the groom as best man.

Bridesmaids were Miss Martha Robinson, sister of the bride, and Miss Edith Cornman, sister of the groom. They wore pink gowns and carried similar bouquets of snapdragons and coral bells.

Eleanor Breneman, niece of the groom, as flower girl, donned yellow and pink gowns and carried white and yellow daisies.

Preceding the ceremony, Clair Robinson, brother of the bride, sang "I Love You Truly," "Oh, Promise Me" and "At Dawning." Errol Alcorn was the accompanist. The bride's party entered to Lohengrin's "Wedding March" and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" was played as the recessional.

A wedding breakfast was served to fifty guests afterwards with nine being seated at the bridal table.

Mrs. Robinson wore a printed sheer for her daughter's wedding, and Mrs. Cornman chose a blue lace.

Leaving later in the day on a week's wedding trip, the bride selected for traveling, a wheat colored wool costume suit with Navy accessories and a shoulder bouquet of pink roses. Upon returning they will be home to friends in their newly furnished cottage at Volant R. D. 1, after August 1.

Both are graduates of East Brook high school, and are popular among their circle of friends.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

DON'TS FOR CHILD'S SAKE

May I be allowed to indulge in a few don'ts for the sake of your child?

Don't be a prosecuting attorney at home, extorting evidence from your child concerning his conduct in your absence. Don't hold "court" with your children.

If when you come home you observe some injured property, replace it or repair the damage if you can, but don't set out to discover the offender. If it is your neighbor's property that is damaged and your neighbor says he thinks your child was the offender but did not see him do it, proceed in like manner. Replace the property and render satisfactory compensation for the sake of peace. If a child volunteers confession, try to make him see how serious the matter is, but do not punish him.

If the destruction were deliberate, it probably was not the first offense; nor is it likely to be the last. Thereafter keep your eyes and ears open. When you yourself observe an offense, deal with it adequately; make it painful. Teach the child while you are with him such care of property as will function when you are away from him. Don't be absent soon again; or if you must be, have a competent adult at home.

No Commands

Don't give commands to your children to be carried out in your absence. Don't tell them what to do or not to do away from home; what to eat or not to eat at school. Commands, to be effective, must carry very certain penalties when they are not obeyed. But how are you to know always when commands to be carried out away from home have been obeyed? You can, of course, engage detectives to report to you. But as soon as you do so you lose the confidence of your child. The loss may never be repaired. You can question the child; but if you do you are almost sure to make him lie.

Suppose you forbid him to enter the "sweet shop" or you command him to have milk and spinach at the school lunch. You then have no way of really knowing whether he obeys. You ask him if he has obeyed. If he answers "no," you punish him or register, at least, your disapproval. The next time you question him he is more sensible and practical. He recalls what it was you had commanded him to do or not to do, and he replies accordingly, regardless of the facts. The child who under such conditions does not learn to lie is doubtless feeble-minded.

When the adolescent child returns from her "affairs," don't hold an inquisition. What can you do? Make a few requests and lead the child to want to do the right thing in your absence.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. How far should teasing be allowed to go in the home? What is the solution?

A. Strictly forbid adults to tease your child in the home or elsewhere if possible. When one child teases another, you may have to step in to defend the underdog. Such may bring temporary relief. Look for jealousy back of it. Sometimes the younger, for lack of adequate restraint, teases the older who in turn takes revenge. Help the teaser find more satisfying outlets which are worthy. Work hard on yourself. Use your head much, your tongue little. Mere separation for a period of time, without any attempt to place the blame, will help. Also see that each child respects possessions of the other and that duties do not overlap.

Q. When my daughter, eight years old, must take medicine, there is an awful scene. And when the medicine is forced into her it returns.

A. Next time she needs medicine, have on hand a good, strong assistant. Have the medicine poured before the child sees it. Then one of you calmly, kindly, but firmly, seize her as the other puts the medicine into her, using the fewest possible words, with the greatest possible dispatch. It will be all over before she will have had time to work up a rage. The surprise will work like magic and the medicine will stay. Proceed in like fashion henceforth until the child volunteers to cooperate; and that will not be long. Do likewise in administering first aid.

Trees are like people. Some are fair.

And some are old and worn.
And some to heavy loads of care
Seem strangely to be born.

Of crippled trees appear
Braving life's buffets and storms
Through many a cruel year.

Some trees are crowded by their kind
And hedged about by greed

The nourishment they need.

And wide grey beards that sit about

Roosevelt Majority Theoretical
Senate Republicans Outnumbered
But Issues Make Big Difference

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The agreement by Senators Alben W. Barkley and Charles L. McNary that President Roosevelt cannot, at present, get the neutrality legislation he wants just goes to show how different the White House's nominally enormous congressional majority is from actuality.

On paper the Democrats cast 69 senate votes; the Republicans only 23. Also there are two Farmer-Labor votes, a Progressive and an Independent. The Progressive and Independent two ballots are pretty dependable pro-administration, which should give the president at least a 71-25 favorable margin over his opposition. Theoretically!

Nevertheless, on this vital issue of neutrality F. D. can't count on a senate majority. It isn't so surprising that Senatorial Republican Leader McNary is balking in behalf of his faction; as G. O. P. generalissimo he is naturally anti-administration. But Democratic Leader Barkley concurs. Barkley's a loyal New Dealer. If he could he'd give his chief what the latter asks for. But he knows he can't depend on his own so-called following. He doesn't oppose the executive mansion's program; he simply recognizes that the administration can't get away with it.

Is It So Vital?

Not now, anyway. Barkley doesn't profess to give up permanently. His version is that it's best to pass up the controversy at the current session on Capitol Hill and go ahead with it next winter. That, of course, is a mere matter of "face saving." If the president can't win in 1939 it isn't likely that he can win with the same congress in early 1940. Or at any extra session meantime.

I've referred to the neutrality issue as vital.

Maybe it isn't so darned vital. It always has been congress' prerogative to do the out-and-out war-declaring. The president never could do it. It isn't proposed to let him do it under latest proposals. It always has been the case that presidential policies might leave congress no option BUT to declare war. However, today's neutrality law seeks to limit his pre-declaration power somewhat—to head him off a bit.

F. D. doesn't like it. His account is that the restrictions on him, instead of being anti-warlike, are pro-warlike.

Basically there isn't such a lot of difference.

I know a congressman (he wouldn't be flattered if I quoted him by name) who told me, "This neutrality thing has been so jumbled up that I don't know which side I'm on."

The essential point is that F. D. has MADE such an issue of it that it's vital. It's personal.

If there isn't a warlike outbreak overseas between now and 1940 it'll frazzle out between today and next January. If there IS an overseas outbreak in the meantime it'll tear the country wide open.

Senator Nye Et Al?

Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota invented the neutrality act.

His aim is to cork up executive authority altogether. Congressman Louis Ludlow's idea is to cork up congress likewise—to prevent even a legislative war declaration without a popular referendum. Senator Lynn J. Frazier has recommended making war unconstitutional. Isn't that going some?

"Senator," said I, "suppose a country declares war against us, unconstitutional as it may be from our standpoint—what are we going to do about it?"

"No country," answered the North Dakotan, "will declare war against a country in which war is unconstitutional."

I'll say that this beats Senator Nye's act or Representative Ludlow's.

The Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT
Copyright, 1939,
by The Baltimore Sun

A Landmark In Politics

WASHINGTON, July 26.

THE full significance of the recently passed Hatch bill, prohibiting political activity upon the part of Federal officers and barring all below the immediate aides of a Cabinet officer from becoming delegates to political conventions, will not become generally apparent until next spring when the Presidential primaries begin. But the practical politicians are under no delusion about it now.

They know this is one of the most politically revolutionary measures enacted in many years. It means that instead of the national conventions of the party in power being largely composed of Administration jobholders, for the first time these will be conspicuously absent. It means that the district attorneys, the United States marshals, and deputy marshals, the internal revenue collectors, the Federal appraisers, the Federal Court officials, departmental employees, postmasters and the multitudinous others on the Government pay roll, from now on, risk the loss of their jobs by any kind of political participation other than that of voting.

IT can be accepted that they are not going to take that risk. The bill further means that no contributions can be solicited from or made by Federal jobholders to a political campaign. Actually, the prohibitions are complete. Over night the Federal jobholder has been taken out of politics. It is difficult to exaggerate what this means. The great bulk of these jobholders were appointed through political influence and most of them have been active and influential in their local politics.

THAT in every campaign they not only contributed to the party fund but back in their districts and wards went to work for the Administration of which they were a part has for many generations been a recognized and accepted fact. They had to do it. Now, that is all over. Now, they cannot contribute, they cannot go to a convention without breaking the law and endangering their jobs. There are some who will resent these prohibitions; to others it will be a relief, but all of them will observe the law. Self-interest and self-protection insure that just as much as those things insured their political activity in the pre-Hatch bill days.

OF course, this bill cuts squarely across the path of the third-term movement. Few will dispute that it not only makes more remote than before a third nomination for Mr. Roosevelt, but that it also makes it exceedingly doubtful that he can obtain a nomination or re-nomination, his intimates assert he is set upon doing. Actually, the chief administration asset in a primary election—to wit, the power and weight of the great jobholding machine—has been nullified.

THAT, under existing circumstances, Congress should have passed this bill is perhaps the most significant single thing it has done this session. Of the President's personal opposition there is not the slightest doubt and the White House statements, made since its passage, that Mr. Roosevelt never really objected to "the principle" of the bill have a hollow ring. Indeed, the simple recital of the Hatch bill history makes these statements seem wholly disingenuous and misleading.

WHAT happened was this: The Senate, without a dissenting vote, passed the bill early in March. There was no opposition in sight and it was expected it would go through the House without delay. It was then the White House got busy. The acting chairman of the Judiciary Committee and others were sent for, conferred with the President and began to make the vaguest excuses for failure to report. For more than four months the bill was held in the committee and it would certainly have died there but for the persistent hammering of the press.

TWO weeks ago it emerged, applying only to relief officials and with all of its teeth drawn. It was then said to be in shape satisfactory to the White House. Last week a coalition of Democrats and Republicans not only restored the teeth on the bill but put it in a lot of extra sharp ones the Senate had forgotten. They then passed the bill by an overwhelming vote. The Senate promptly accepted the House bill and it is now in Mr. Roosevelt's lap.

FROM the Administration standpoint the passage of the bill is unquestionable.

SEVEN-FOLD JUMP IN SPY CASES

THE extent of suspected espionage activities in this country since war scares became routine business may be gauged from the seven-fold increase in spy investigations conducted by the Department of Justice during the past year.

For five years prior to 1938 an average of only 35 such cases a year had come before the FBI. For the twelve months ending June 30, 1938, the total was 250, but in the last year it skyrocketed to 1651 new cases.

Details on the nature and location of the spy probes are lacking in the Bureau's report, but the growing number of such investigations shows the soundness of the plan recently announced at Washington for co-ordination of counter-espionage activities and the centralization of spy inquiry work in the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

THERE'S A DIFFERENCE

A leading western educator, Dr. Harold Benjamin, dean of the University of Colorado Summer session, recently told an audience that Americans are "the most standardized and docile people in the world, in spite of a belief commonly held in certain intellectual circles that the people of the United States will resist regimentation."

Now, that seems to be one of those half-truths which sound far worse than they actually are. In the Babbitt sense so ably depicted by Sinclair Lewis, it is probably true that standardization of living has made itself felt in the U. S. A. But this is not to say that goose-stepping conformity of the Nazi brand is at all popular.

Every American may aim to have a car in his garage, an electric icebox in his kitchen and a radio in his living room; but just let some bureaucratic strutter try to tell him how to think, how to vote or how to talk. There is in fact a vast deal of difference between standardization and regimentation. And if Dr. Benjamin doesn't believe it, let him start getting dictatorial with some of the youths under his academic control.

THREAT TO METROPOLITAN

It is of more than passing interest to music lovers everywhere that continuance of grand opera in New York after the 1939-1940 season is in danger. The 35 partier boxholders, half of them estates, not individuals, that own the Metropolitan Opera House are in no position as a group to continue. Some of them flatly refuse to pay assessments, through which alone the tax bills can be met, though each is obligated up to $4,500 a year for the high musical and social privilege of owning a box. Rentals in the building pay the mortgage, interest and more, but the Opera Association, which puts on the productions, gets the auditorium and warehouse use free.

There has not for years, of course, been any thought of big money-making out of opera that scoured the world for the greatest vocalists. The season is in part subsidized by the Opera Association. But now the 35 original wealthy owners of the property are dead, and 46 years after the building of the structure there is a disposition among some of their heirs and estates no longer to pay constant toll of assessment. The Opera and Real Estate Company feels it has to quit, but will co-operate in any effort by the Opera Association to enlist civic groups and music lovers generally in a movement to buy and operate the property. The Association has made a tentative offer for the plant contingent on getting outside support and has a year in which to perfect an organization.

For two generations the Metropolitan has been the music center of this country. The long queues that stand for hours waiting for mere standing room are a tribute to grand opera's popularity here. The Metropolitan has made a vast contribution to the cultural life of the nation, since it has been the Mecca of opera devotees from every state.

EXTENDING THE FOOD STAMP SYSTEM

If Administration farm officials proceed with their present plan of extending the new stamp method of distributing surplus food among needy families to include upward of 100 cities this system of reducing surpluses while augmenting relief resources will receive a more thorough test than it has as yet been accorded.

The plan is said to have worked successfully in Rochester, New York; Dayton, Ohio, and Seattle, Washington, where it was introduced as an experiment.

The arrangement makes it possible for persons on relief to take part of their relief wages or allotments in orange stamps, worth one dollar apiece, which may be exchanged in co-operating stores for any kind of food. With each orange stamp the relief recipient gets a fifty-cent blue stamp which is good only for purchase of foods listed as surplus commodities.

Farm surpluses are a constant depressing influence on farm prices. If the stamp system helps to cut down surpluses while at the same time aiding relief families it will have performed important service.

However, it is possible that when applied on a large scale the plan may have an unsettling effect on markets and prices. Two-price systems generally have an unstabilizing influence. They tend to complicate, rather than simplify, a nation's economy. Moreover, others seeking to buy foods at relief prices may become a troubling factor.

The food-stamp plan has possibilities, but its potential liabilities should be given due consideration.

Local Naturalist And Indian Lore Expert Addresses Boys In Camp

Seventy five boys of the Heinz House camp located along the Slippery Rock Creek in Wayne township were thrilled Tuesday evening when Owen Penfield Fox, city forester of New Castle, and an expert in Indian lore addressed them at their camp fire service.

Mr. Fox had with him a large collection of Indian relics which he displayed as he talked. Head dress, peace pipe, tomahawk, breast plate, these and a host of others he showed. Several times he repeated to close his address but the interested youngsters urged him to continue. At dinner time he addressed them in the dining hall, on trees and birds, and before dark took the boys on a hike and pointed out some of the beauties of Nature around them. All of the boys are residents of the Northside, Pittsburgh, and have been in camp since July 1. They demonstrated their interest in Mr. Fox's address in a positive way and declared his talk to be one of the high spots of the camp fire periods of the month.

questionably politically damaging. The President's most partial friends do not pretend that his power in the primaries without the jobholders great as with them. From the standpoint of the conservative Democrats active can be even measurably as the bill furthers their chances of controlling the 1940 convention. From the public standpoint the bill will promote decency in politics and make it easier for the will of the people to prevail over the machine—particularly in the primaries. It is a landmark in politics; its enactment against White House opposition a heartening thing. When the record of this session is written it will atone for more than one sin of omission and quite a few of commission.

The Human Side Of The News
(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1939 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Patrons of art dropped from fashion a little while after Shakespeare dedicated deathless rhyme to a noble lord, and not so long after Michelangelo's brushes splashed so gloriously the ceilings of St. Peter's Sistine Chapel for the honor of a benevolent vicar of God.

But out at New York World's Fair, evidence a-plenty indicates that Thomas J. Watson is reviving the role. And being an American and a business man, he is, naturally, going his predecessors one better. Popes and noble lords mostly felt they had done their good deed when they encouraged one artist, in one country. Tycoon Watson, heartily agreeing that "Art alone Enduring stays with us," the bust outlasts the throne. The coin "Tiberius" is encouraging mighty near an army; and his beneficence grandly embraces almost all known countries, including the Scandinavian.

Two or three years ago, when the rash of world's fairs began to break on these United States, Mr. Watson got the notion that a pretty complete bird's-eye view of the world of art could be rounded up if his favorite corporation got one sample from every country in which it had a branch shop.

Mr. Watson's favorite corporation is the International Business Machines Company. He is its president. So it was easy to put his notion to work. Before one of his newest comptometers could have added two and two, scouts had picked the brains of art authorities from Chicago to Singapore, from Paris to Penang. The fastest liners hurried the seven seas to foam hurrying selections New Yorkward. And now they all are hung for every man to see and judge in the Business Machines Gallery of Science and Art in Flushing Meadows. Incidentally a like exhibit is on view at the Fair in San Francisco. There are landscapes, portraits, oils, watercolors and maybe even a few gaucheries from all the world over.

Colorful Jamaica is there in the work of nineteenth-year-old Albert Huie. Japan, in fragile, delicate contradiction to the bloody panorama spread over China is there in the work of grandfatherly Shuko Kegami. He has a beard to his belt and was exhibiting mature art a quarter of a century before Huie's eager countenance first received the pigment from Jamaica's sun.

Among the exhibitors are five women. One is stocky Helena Sturtevant, who started in Rhode Island, but paints Bahamian scenes. Another is twinkling Mabel Rainsford, who turned her back on emerald Ireland for the even warmer green of Bermuda. A third is a gifted chit of a blonde, Doreen Moore, who paints robustly romantic scenes from her native South Africa.

All told, there are arresting, vigorous pictures of from seventy-nine countries, and when Mr. Watson looks the lot over he can be forgiven if he asks himself what Campbell, New York, would think of that. Mr. Watson was born in Campbell almost as long ago as Shuko Kegami was born in Japan. He got his first taste for art at the Addison (New York) Academy, and shortly after his first taste of business at the Elmira School of Commerce. Ever since he has been mixing the two. This, because of his conviction that business men could increase their interest in art, and artists their interest in business, with no harm to either. Certainly no harm has come to him.

Besides his presidency, he is a director in a raft of corporations, a member of twenty-odd clubs, holder of honorary degrees from seven universities, and decorations from almost as many governments. When the World's Fair is over he is just about certain to be decorated again, with something very special by the artists from those seventy-nine countries.

Over 300 Attend Camp Ceremonies

Largest Camp Rentz Crowd
Impressed By Candlelight Induction

(Special To The News)

CAMP FRED L. RENTZ, July 26.—With 81 cars parked on the camp grounds and with over 300 visitors—mostly from New Castle—on hand, Camp Rentz staged one of its most impressive evening camp ceremonies last night.

Solemn and awe-inspiring services in the camp's vesper chapel were witnessed by the camp's largest visiting throng, which left late in the evening satisfied that the camp is doing a marvelous job of building healthier and better boys.

The ceremonies, conducted part of the time by the light of a single candle, formally inducted into office a group of junior counselors and probationary counselors.

Gethin Thomas, who left Camp Rentz yesterday to assume a new steel corporation job, conducted the exercises. They followed ceremonies conducted regularly at 57-year-old Camp Beckett in New York state, a "Y" camp which happens to be the oldest camp in the United States today.

Opened at 8:15 in the chapel ground with only the light of a single candle illuminating a white cross, the inspiring service proceeded until all the counselors had been inducted. Each cabin of boys was furnished candles, and one by one, they lit theirs from the flame of the candle which brightened the cross. Then the boys, with candles burning, formed a semi-circle in the darkness. The charge of eternal light was given; the hymn, "Where He Leads Me I Will Follow," was sung, and then "Taps" were sounded, after which all the boys retreated to their cabins for a three-minute period of silence.

The tolling of the camp bell marked the end of the ceremonies. A campfire ceremony for boys who departed for their homes this morning followed. The campfire story was told by Lawrence Bennett who succeeds Thomas as religious director of the camp.

Today began the camp's fourth week.

Brenneman's Market Employees Gather For Picnic Event

Families Of Employees Guests;
Informal Program Features
After Dinner Hours

Employees of Brenneman's Market, together with their families, and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Brenneman and daughter Bonnie, forgot the usual routines of the day and gathered at the summer cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Gallagher along the Slippery Rock creek for a most successful outing on Tuesday evening.

Amidst this picturesque setting, the group numbering upwards of 50, was served a bountiful full course dinner at 7 o'clock. The tables were nicely appointed and the committee in charge composed Mrs. C. L. Brenneman, Mrs. J. M. Everhart, Mrs. Larry Harper and Mrs. Vincent Gallagher.

A variety of games for all ages was enjoyed. Boating and other avenues of diversions also claimed attention.

An appetizing midnight lunch was later prepared and served around a huge bonfire. During this interval pep singing was enjoyed and radio music also contributed to the entertainment.

In the contests Al Gendeiger won the watermelon feature, which was a highlight of the outing.

Due to the overwhelming success of the affair, plans are already being formulated for a similar outing in the near future.

DANGER—POISON IVY!

No discussion of the accidents that befall children during the summer holidays would be complete without a word or two about poison ivy.

The offending plant itself is small, short and green, with leaves in clusters of three, joined at the center and spreading out from the central point. The size of the leaves vary but usually are about two inches long with a wide base and rounded outline, gradually tapering to a narrow point. The plant has no flower, but in the fall the leaves turn various colors and are so attractive that unwary people pick them—to their sorrow!

Some fortunate people are immune to this plant, being able to handle it without the slightest reaction; others are so sensitive that if they even come near it they break out in a rash. Some who are sensitive to the plant in their youth develop an immunity as they grow older.

I have seen many cases of this among summer visitors, and it seems to be about two or three days after the individual has been exposed that the reaction is seen. The skin becomes itchy, and a red bluish accompanies it. In a few hours, this area is likely to become swollen so that the part affected takes on a puffy appearance. This is followed by the formation of small blisters containing a clear fluid. These gradually enlarge, rupture and discharge their contents onto the surrounding skin. Occasionally no blisters appear at all, but large areas become raised. This usually represents a more serious type of the malady.

As the disease progresses, the tops of the blisters break off and leave an area of red flesh beneath. Scratching these itchy surfaces often infects them.

On first appearance, the rash is limited to the area that has actually been in contact with the plant. But as the victim scratches, the area spreads to other parts of the body. Usually a patient with poison ivy infection will feel very miserable because of the irritation that accompanies the lesion. In severe cases there is fever, and a general feeling of ill-health. Children who infect the areas of rash by scratching are apt to feel quite ill for a few days until the system can take care of the infection.

Without treatment most cases of poison ivy will disappear within a few days or a week. But in some instances it hangs on for weeks, even months. Treatment is directed toward keeping the patient as comfortable as possible by reducing irritation.

Baking soda and water, the first solution applied in most cases, often gives the necessary relief. If the case is bad it may be necessary to place the child in a bath of this mixture. Calamine lotion is also used to soothe the irritation if the baking soda fails. Bran baths often help too.

The acute lesion is likely to be treated differently by different doctors, for some obtain results with one lotion, some with another. There is no shortcut to a complete cure.

Poison ivy isn't so very common in this country, but as I can imagine the trouble we'd have if the five Quints got poisoned with it, we have one of the attendants go around the fences and any place else the weed might grow, just to make sure. I know the Quints well enough to know that if they found a new plant like this, with its nice shiny leaves, they would pick it and bring it to the nurse or to me.

Smooth Out the Bumps in Life

Governor Long Discusses Louisiana Graft Scandal

New Sensation Has Developed

"If Huey Long Were Still Alive Scandal Would Never Have Happened"

STATE HIGHWAY HEAD INDICTED

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent
BATON ROUGE, La., July 26.—"If Huey Long were still alive this scandal never would have happened."

This was the declaration of Governor Earl K. Long, brother of the famous Huey, as he sat in the executive mansion today and discussed the great Louisiana political graft scandal which is rocking the state.

Newest Sensation
The newest sensation in the graft expose is the indictment of L. P. Abernathy, who only recently resigned as chairman of the Louisiana State Highway Commission. Abernathy is accused of using his position to secure business for a corporation in which he was a stockholder.

Indictments were returned by the East Baton Rouge grand jury against Abernathy, A. K. Kilpatrick, office manager of the Standard Office Supply Company, of Monroe, La., and Dr. James Monroe Smith, resigned president of the Louisiana State University, who previously was indicted on forgery and embezzlement charges.

It is alleged that Abernathy, while a member of the board of supervisors of L. S. U., gave contracts to the Standard Office Supply Company, a corporation in which he was a principal stockholder.

Involve $40,000

According to the indictments the contracts were given out by Abernathy over a three year period starting in 1936 and involved approximately $40,000. Huey Long died in 1935.

Nearly all the acts of graft being charged in connection with various deals were made after 1935.

Governor Long, in talking with an International News Service reporter, said graft such as is now being charged against various state officials could not exist if his brother Huey was still running the state Democratic organization. The governor said the graft scandal was "unfortunate" and "nauseating."

"It never would have happened under Huey," said Governor Long, who became governor on June 26 last when Governor Richard W. Leche, resigned because of "poor health." Long was lieutenant governor.

Plans are being made by quite a number tennis players from the Seventh Ward to enter the city county tournament, to be held soon. This tournament will open on August 14, and will continue through the preliminaries, semi-finals and finals.

It is hoped that some of the play-offs may be held at the fine Progressive club tennis court, in the ward. According to Albert J. Dottle, president of the club, he is endeavoring to bring some of the matches to that court.

Winners of the tennis tournament last year are looking forward to the coming events.

Entertainment was provided by the men, as the single men defeated the married men in a fast game of softball. The ladies spent an enjoyable time just visiting.

A delicious menu was served by Mrs. Horchler, aided by the following committee: Mrs. H. E. Alexander, Miss Ethel Scheidemann and Mrs. Manley Broadbent. Plans were made for another picnic for the group in August.

Court had taken the children from both parents and sent them to the Gould foundation, from where they went to live with Mrs. Hermann.

AROUND CITY HALL

Each Tuesday and Friday, Mayor Charles E. McGrath conducts traffic court. Most of the persons who appear before the tribunal are those who have unwittingly violated the parking meter ordinance. Some of them, whom in most instances prove strangers, fail to place nickels in the meter slots and others have tags placed on their machines while seeking change to secure a nickel. Still others enter establishments to do business and do not get back to their autos before the hour's time has expired. In each instance the mayor listens to the testimony then makes a decision as to whether or not the person should be fined. It has been seldom more than one dozen violators appear on any one day the tribunal is in session.

Jack Thompson, one of the most popular of police officers, has returned from the World's Fair in New York City. While there he met Dr. and Mrs. Paul Wilson. He also met Bill Robinson, former local newspaperman, who is affiliated with the fair.

"Drink only from water approved by the state," was the warning issued today by Dr. William L. Steen, the city health officer. There have been few cases of typhoid fever found here in recent years. According to the health officer the illness found here had origin elsewhere.

FALL WEB WORM

HARRISBURG, July 26--The fall web worm is making its appearance in small webs on shade and forest trees in the northern part of the State. This insect is a native species and is largely held in check by native parasites and predators. The leaves of the infested tree are webbed together to form nests which are unsightly. The web may in small, generally infested trees involve the entire top. Arsenate of lead, four pounds in 100 gallons of water, is the best spray to apply for the control of this pest.

WHAT TO DO FOR ECZEMA ITCHING AND BURNING

Wash the affected parts with Resinol Soap and warm water to soften scales and crusts. Resinol Soap is suggested because it contains no excess of free alkali, and cleanses the tender skin so carefully. Dry by patting with a soft cloth—do not rub.

Many doctors recommend an oily ointment because it holds the medication in contact with the irritated skin surface, giving prolonged action. Resinol Ointment meets this requirement, and does even more. For nearly 45 years it has been— and still is —successfully used to relieve quickly the itching and burning of eczema. It contains soothing ingredients that aid healing.

Use Resinol Ointment today and enjoy comfort tomorrow. Get a jar, also a cake of Resinol Soap, at any drug store. For free sample, write to Resinol, Dept. 87, Baltimore, Md.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Tommy Jones, present traffic commissioner in the department of police and formerly a lightweight fighter, took in the Conn-Bettina fight in Madison Square Garden, New York City, while sojourning in the east. Tommy reports that Conn defeated Bettina. Prior to Tommy's statement, some of the boys around town who had witnessed the motion pictures of the scrap felt that Conn was not entitled to the decision.

Henry Armstrong, holder of three pugilistic titles, is reported to be threatened with retirement because of bad hands. . . . Bobby Riggs of Chicago, waited through his opening singles tourney, losing only three games as he paced a representative field into the third round. He beat Carlton Hood of Brooklyn, 6-1, 6-2. Elwood T. Cook, almost became a major upset. He overcame Bob Peacock of California U., 7-5, 3-6, 6-0, but had to go all out to win. He was seeded fourth. Bryan Grant, Frank Parker, Gardner Mulloy and Wayne Sabin joined Riggs in the third round.

Local Golfers Win At Poland

Alex Dutkin and Emil Grommes Win Prizes In Amateur Division Golf Tourney

After taking the lead in the pro-amateur tourney staged at the Poland Country club on Monday with a sparkling 71 round, one under par, Alex Dutkin of the Sylvan Heights course, got into trouble yesterday, and had to take a 79, which gave him second place in the amateur division. However, he won a fine golf bag. His score yesterday was 79, making a total of 150 for the two days of play.

Emil Grommes of Sylvan Heights, city champion, took fifth place, putting a 74 on top of his 79 round of Monday, for a total of 153.

Sam Parks of Pittsburgh, former National Open champion, won the pro division with a total of 137, with rounds of 67 and 70, with Ted Luther of Churchill Valley Country club, and Johnny Malutik, former Poland pro, tied for second place with 139.

Ted Lach, the Sylvan Heights course prodigy, who was entered in his first big tourney, was unable to get going Monday, taking a round of 85. He cut this down to 79 yesterday, but was outside the money.

Other local entries who failed to get within the winning group, were: Emil "Mose" Mancine, of Sylvan Heights; "Dike" Monsey, New Castle field club; and Izzy Solomon, Sylvan Heights course, all of whom did fairly well on the opening day, but not quite good enough to stand the pace set by the winners.

Morrison Stars As Tigers Win

Allows Slovak Club Three Hits As Tigers Pound Ball Hard For 6 To 1 Win

Paul Morrison, the tall West Side Tiger pitching ace was master of the Slovak Club, first-half champs, last night at Lee avenue field, granting them just three scratch singles and winning 6 to 1 as his mates pounded Balla and Coates for nine hits.

Young Rote was the feature hitter of the game, pasting out a homer. DelPrincipe had a double for the only other extra-base sock that was socked. The Tigers got away to a two to one lead at the end of the third, but drove Balla out of the box in the last of the sixth with a three-run attack that put the game on ice. The Slovaks played a loose game in the field being charged with four errors.

Donald Hangs Up Twelfth Victory

Rookie Has Yet To Taste Defeat This Year, Yanks Win 5 To 1 Over Browns

PIRATES HANDED GAME BY MULCAHY

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writers

NEW YORK, July 26.—For years and years we have heard it said that anything could happen in baseball but we always have had a sneaking suspicion that there were certain things that simply could not occur, either by accident or design.

But all that was before yesterday. Today we know anything can happen. We became a believer immediately after Leo Durocher—once known as the all-America out—made a home run against the Cubs in Chicago. We hope that the movie cameras made a record of the history-making event for if they didn't nobody is ever going to believe it.

Donald Wins Twelfth
But Leo's historic homer wasn't the only unique occurrence yesterday. There was, for instance, the spectacle of a rookie right hander—Atley Donald of the Yanks—hanging up his 12th straight victory without a defeat this year.

If Lady Luck continues to smile on Donald—and she won't have to smile very much at that—he may equal the 19 straight of Rube Marquard. In his last previous start the rookie gave only three hits and yesterday he was almost as effective as he let the Browns down with five hits to win, 5 to 1.

Red Sox Win Two
The Red Sox twice cooled off the White Sox and are now only seven games back of the Yanks—not too close, but close enough to keep on the pressure. Cronin's homer helped Lefty Grove win his tenth victory, 3-2, and homers Nos. 20 and 21 by Jimmy Fox and one by Doerr helped Dickman take the other in ten innings, 6 to 5.

The Indians and A's staged a weird affair. They were tied at 3-3 all going into the ninth when the Indians made nine runs. The A's then came back with five to lose, 12-8.

Fred Hutchinson, high-priced rookie recently recalled from Toledo, went the route for the Tigers but he was up against Dutch Leonard and the Senators beat him, 5-3.

Dodgers Win Both
The Dodgers took a pair, believe it or not, from the Cubs, 8-4 and 3-1, winning the first in the ninth and the second on Casey's six-hit pitching and Durocher's unbelievable homer.

The Pirates took the Phils in 10 heats, 5-4, on a wild pitch by Hugh Mulcahy, and the Giants, after dropping nine in a row, rallied behind old Carl Hubbell to trim the Cards in 13 innings, 6-3.

Harry Craft's homer in the seventh with a man on base gave the Cincinnati Reds a 2-1 victory over the Boston Bees.

Elders Surprise Lawrence Indies

League Leaders Topped 9 To 5 For First Setback In Second Half Of Loop Season

Eddie "Ace" Lamm held the league leading Lawrence Indies at field while his mates, the Elders, pounded Paul Coates and Pryzby for 10 hits to win 9 to 5. It was the first defeat for the Indies in the second half of the City Baseball league.

The Elders hopped to a 4 to 1 lead in the first of the second inning and were never in danger after that. Lamm was very effective with men on base. He fanned three batters. Paul Coulter and Henie Koszela were the star batters in the game, with three safe blows apiece.

The defeat for the Indies tightens the city league race up somewhat. The Slovaks will play the Indies at Cedar street Thursday night and a Slovak win if West Pittsburgh takes Ryantown will make a three-way tie for first place.

Stock Market Fails To Hold Advance As Light Profit-Taking Appears

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, July 26.—The stock market today again failed to hold an early advance, as profit-taking converted gains running to more than a point into fair-sized declines before noon.

Trading was at a slow pace with first hour sales limited to 220,000 shares.

Chrysler had a point gain wiped out and a fractional loss substituted, while General Motors, up almost a point early, slipped back to last night's close. U. S. Steel and Bethlehem changed fractional gains into equal-sized losses in the second hour.

These were typical of movements throughout the general market. Westinghouse Electric and American Car & Foundry each fell more than a point.

I. R. T. was particularly hard-pressed, it opened 1 1/2 points lower on a sale of 3,000 shares at 3 1/2, then slumped to 3 1/4 before meeting support, a new low for the year. This reflected the city purchase plan, which allocated an approximate $3 a share for I. R. T. stock.

Some issues maintained a relatively firm undertone. Du Pont climbed a point, while the low-priced Pathe Film rose as much to a new 1939 peak of 12 1/2.

Martin Gantz School Gang Gives Challenge

"Dares" Other School Reunion Groups To Spelling Bee On August 10

Wants To Slap Down Slabtown, Reynoldstown And Others In Downtown Church

Charlie Andrews and the Martin Gantz School Association today publicly challenge Reynoldstown, Lincoln, Lincoln-Garfield, Mullentown and Thaddeus Stevens school reunion associations to a spelling bee on the evening of Thursday, August 10, in the Sunday School room of the First Christian church on the Diamond.

You will remember that the boys and girls of Reynoldstown, Slabtown, Ryantown, and the other districts of Old New Castle, had a lot of bones to pick that never got entirely picked. This spelling bee will be a great chance for the gangs to get appeasement the Hitler way—without the shedding of blood.

Here is the challenge being mailed to the presidents of the reunion associations, a copy of which was today given to The News:

The Challenge

"To—

"Anna McGurk, President of Reynoldstown School Association.

"Harry Clark, President of Lincoln School Association.

"Dave T. Nelson, President of Lincoln-Garfield School Association.

"Hugh D. Horton, President of Mullentown School Association.

"T. Humphrey Richards, President of Thaddeus Stevens School Association.

"Believing that the Martin Gantz 'boys' and 'girls' of yesteryear are better spellers than the spellers produced in Reynoldstown, Slabtown, Mullentown, or on the Old Fall-Track, we do hereby challenge any or all of you to an old fashioned 'Spelling Bee' to be held on the evening of August 10th.

"The Martin Gantz school has its alumni reunion and banquet on this date, and it's proposed that the 'Bee' be held in the evening of that date. And that all the members of the different associations and the public be invited to the contest. The banquet will be held in the dining room of the First Christian church on the diamond, and the church has generously granted us the use of the Sunday School room for the spelling bee.

"It is suggested that each team from each school be composed of two 'boys' and two 'girls', making a total of 24 persons taking part in the contest. That school teachers be barred; that the old Osgood speller be used.

"It is planned to make this an annual event, with a different school each year acting as host to the affair.

"Would request that each president of each association appoint one person to meet with one from our association to arrange and prepare rules for 'spelling-down.' The committee should meet during the present week.

"As boys you would punch the noses of other boys who had the temerity to enter your school zone, so now let us see if you have the nerve to meet each other in a peaceful combat of words.

Respectfully submitted:

Martin Gantz School Association;

C. H. Andrews, president;

Kathryn Kilbreath, secretary."

Woman Gas Station Owner Uses Gun In Gas Price War

Answers "Committee" Of 40-Odd Men At Her Establishment With Birdshot

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 26.—Action and buckshot supplanted words today in Allegheny county's gasoline "price war"—the answer of a Moon township woman gas station owner to a "committee" of 40-odd men who swarmed into her establishment.

One member of the committee of Associated Gasoline Dealers, Frank E. Klin, was treated for birdshot wounds in the back, Mrs. Verlan Juliana, 31, the little woman who sent the travelling committee scurrying with gunfire, told police she fired the shotgun at the ground when the visitors crapped a price sign from her gasoline pump.

She said the committee had "pestered" her 15 times to raise her price to the average 18-cents per gallon level. She lowered it to 16 cents during the last gas war. A spokesman for the committee said the association "wants to keep prices at a level high enough so the 5,000 operators and employees in the business can make a decent living."

In July of 1853, a society known as the "Ladies of Lawrence County Association" was formed, with the following officers: President, Joseph Mallett Keast came to the United States from Cornwall, England in 1854.
